

Modern Slavery Statement

Our voluntary statement on preventing modern slavery in our business and supply chain.

Policies Version 1.0 Effective 20 October 2026 Last updated 20 October 2026

In short

- PriceHQ is a small Australian business and isn't required to report under the Modern Slavery Act 2018 (Cth); this statement is voluntary.
- Our main suppliers are established technology companies with their own modern slavery commitments.
- We don't tolerate modern slavery and will act on any concern.

This summary helps you find your way. The full text below is what applies.

This is a voluntary statement. PriceHQ is below the revenue threshold for mandatory reporting under the Modern Slavery Act 2018 (Cth), but we think it's right to explain our approach.

1. Our business

- 1.1 PriceHQ provides web hosting, business email, VPS servers, website design and app development to customers in Australia and overseas. We're a small team based in Australia.

2. Our supply chain

- 2.1 Our main suppliers are data-centre and cloud infrastructure providers, payment processors, software vendors and domain registries. They're established companies, many of which publish their own modern slavery statements.
- 2.2 We buy few physical goods; most are computer equipment from mainstream retailers.

3. Risks and what we do

- 3.1 The main modern slavery risks for a business like ours are in the manufacture of electronics and in outsourced services.
- 3.2 We choose reputable suppliers, prefer those that publish modern slavery commitments, don't outsource customer support to unknown third parties, and pay fairly for any work we commission.

- 3.3 If we learn of modern slavery in our supply chain, we'll investigate and stop working with a supplier that won't fix it.

4. Raising a concern

- 4.1 If you have a concern, email hello@pricehq.tech. We'll review this statement each year.
